

Sacramento hammers Thunder

• Kings' 16-0 run in the third quarter put the game away.

OKLAHOMA CITY — With the preseason winding down, the Sacramento Kings got just the kind of spark they had been missing from Andres Nocioni. They're just learning what rookie Omri Casspi can do.

Nocioni scored 19 points and Casspi added 16 as the Kings beat the Oklahoma

NBA: THUNDER

City Thunder 104-89 on Thursday night despite playing without leading scorer Kevin Martin.

Nocioni did all of his scoring in the first half as Sacramento took advantage of Oklahoma City's suspect 3-point defense to build a big lead. The Kings then put the game away with a 16-0 surge in the third quarter.

"It was nice to see Nocioni break out like that. We all know he's a really good player, but he's kind of had a slow start in training camp," Kings coach Paul Westphal said. "That was a big thing."

Nocioni had averaged 13.7 points after coming over from Chicago in a February trade, but was scoring just 5.4 points per game this preseason. He had 14 points in the second quarter alone.

"I tried to make my open shots," Nocioni said. "I think I played well and this team played well."

Westphal replaced Spencer Hawes with Sean May in the lineup and Casspi started in place of Martin, who sprained his left ankle in a loss to Phoenix on Tuesday.

"Casspi just keeps making steps every game to prove that he belongs on the court. When you have a player who keeps playing like that, he's an easy guy to put in the game," Westphal said.

Sacramento (2-4) finishes preseason play Friday against Utah, then opens the regular season Wednesday with another visit to Oklahoma City.

Kevin Durant led Oklahoma City (2-5) with 15 points, rookie James Harden scored 14 and reserve Etan Thomas, a Booker T. Washington graduate, had 12 points and nine rebounds.
